Excavator Long Reach Arm with Bucket/Stone Grapple for Stone Handling in Rivers

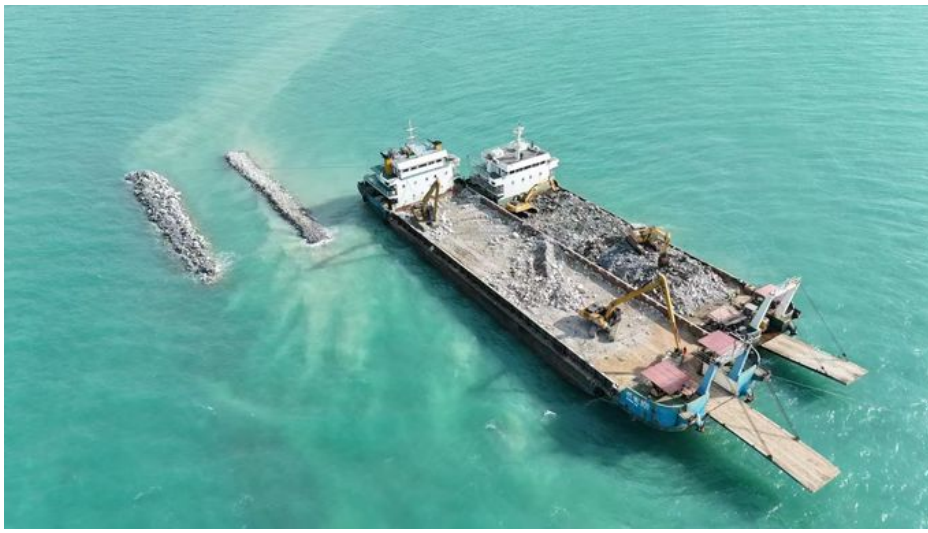

Overview of the Excavator Long Arm with Stone Grapple

Designed for optimal performance in reaching and grabbing stones from a distance, this arm is well-suited for various working conditions. It is constructed from high-quality materials, either Shaogang Q355B or Q690D, ensuring durability and strength.

This exceptional long arm excavator is engineered for efficiency and durability, making it ideal for handling stones in challenging environments. Crafted from high-grade materials, such as Shaogang Q355B or Q690D, this excavator provides exceptional strength and resilience. The innovative design allows for extended reach, enabling operators to easily grab and maneuver stones from significant distances without repositioning the machine.

Equipped with a robust stone grab attachment, it ensures secure handling and efficient loading, whether for construction projects or riverbank maintenance. This long arm excavator is the perfect solution for those seeking reliability and performance in their excavation tasks.
